Apply for a grant to participate in Uppsala Health Summit: Healthy Lives from Sustainable Food Systems 25-26 October 2022, Uppsala, Sweden

Welcome to apply for support to participate in our food systems summit!

The grant is open to researchers and practitioners from low and middle-income countries. Take this rare opportunity to meet and discuss in person with colleagues from around the world!

At Uppsala Health Summit, we believe that, more than ever, we need to pool resources and energies to transform food systems towards secure and safe food promoting our health globally.

This requires contributions from actors representing different parts of the society, including policy-making, academia, industry, NGOs and the public sectors.

To ensure a constructive and informed dialogue at Uppsala Health Summit October 25-26, we offer scholarships for up to 20 experts and practitioners from low- and middle-income countries to participate in the Summit. The grant covers travel and hotel accommodation for up to 3 nights, as well as participation in the summit.

We are looking for delegates with a strong drive to make a difference and who are ready to make use of new ideas and connections made at the summit in your home country.

The application consists of a CV and a motivation letter in the provided form. Last day for applications to reach us is 10th of July 2022.

More information about eligibility and how to apply* is available on Uppsala Health Summit's website. Please read the information carefully before completing your application!

Scholarship for Journalists

As the overall goal is to drive change, by increasing awareness of solutions and dilemmas, it is important for the Summit to reach out to society outside the group of participants. Connecting with the media, and giving them a possibility to attend the summit, is thus important.

Uppsala Health Summit sets aside a limited budget to invite up to four journalists who otherwise wouldn't have the possibility to attend the summit.

Take this opportunity to deepen your insights and broaden your networks in health and food policy!

The application consist of a personal letter. The last day for the application to reach Uppsala Health Summit is 10th of July, 2022.
